

I am strongly opposed to relaxing media ownership requirements. My quality of life has declined as a result of large media companies consolidating ownership of radio stations in the Denver market and converting their formats, so most stations play the same thing.

I shudder to think if Clear Channel, for example, owned newspapers as well and suppressed the reports that have come out about irregularities in their operation.

This proposal is anti-competitive, anti-diversity. I find it hard to believe that it could be seriously considered.
